-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 22 January 2004.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by FR 2781525A.

FR 2781525A discloses a Servo-assisted butterfly valve an internal combustion engine comprising a valve body a valve seat defined in the valve body, a butterfly body adapted to engage the valve seat, a shaft on which the butterfly body is keyed and housed by the valve body, an electric actuator coupled to the shaft in order to rotate the butterfly body between an open and a closed position of the valve seat, an elastic member (16,17) which is adapted to exert a torque on the shaft which tends to rotate the butterfly body towards a limp-home position and an abutment body which forms an abutment surface for an abutment member (18) of the elastic body in order to stop, in the desired limp-home position, the rotation of the butterfly body caused by the elastic body in the absence of action by the electric actuator, the abutment body comprising an eccentric member (24) which is adapted to rotate with respect to the valve body with a predetermined eccentricity about an adjustment axis; the butterfly valve being characterized in that the elastic body (16,17) comprises first spring (16) provided with first projection coupled mechanically the shaft and second spring provided with a projection coupled mechanically to the valve body the first and second springs (17) being connected together by curved member (18) which forms the abutment member. With regard to claim 2, the first front spring (16) tends to rotate the shaft with movement which tends bring the butterfly body into the closed position, and the second spring (17) tends to rotate the shaft with a movement which tends to bring the butterfly body into the open position, the first spring generating an elastic torque lower than the elastic torque generated by the second spring.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited references show limp-home facilities for a throttle valve.
